

About Notional

Notional is the first fully decentralized ethereum-based protocol for borrowing and lending at fixed rates and fixed terms. In just the first three months after launching in January 2021, the v1 protocol saw quick user uptake, attracting more than $19M in TVL and executing $9.5M+ in loans.

The opportunity Notional is going after is significant — fixed rate lending is a multi-trillion dollar market. Today, DeFi can only serve a small segment of the crypto lending market because variable interest rates don't provide the certainty that lenders and borrowers require. Notional fixes this by creating a true market for lenders and borrowers that democratizes and empowers individual investors, business owners and institutional investors.

After raising a $10 million Series A in May 2021 from some of the top VC firms, including Coinbase Ventures, Notional's protocol will be re-launched with a much-anticipated v2 in mid-2021 with a host of new features and use cases.

To find out more, follow Notional on Twitter @NotionalFinance, subscribe to the newsletter, join the Discord, or check out the website to learn more.